Choose a writer's notebook that fits your life. It could be a plain marble notebook that you decorate with photographs and souvenirs from your travels or it could be a specialty notebook like the kind you find at Borders or in writing stores. In either case, the notebook needs to be at least as large as a hardcover novel and sturdy enough to last all year and be used in school and at home. A spiral notebook is not a good choice because the cover falls off easily and the paper tends to rip.
